The Division of Health System, Policy and Management of the CUHK School of Public Health and Primary Care is launching a series of Systems for Health Seminars, in which, distinguished local and international speakers are invited to deliver seminars on emerging issues and topics related to health system and policy worldwide.

The international progress towards the UN Millennium Development Goals has underlined the urgent need to strengthen health systems through evidence-based policy making, better management of healthcare organizations, and further collaboration across stakeholders. Hong Kong, facing the similar challenges in access, cost and quality of care, has much to offer and learn from the world community.

This seminar series aims to build an integrated platform for policymakers, managers, professionals, public health workers and researchers to share lessons, exchange ideas and develop strategies, ultimately providing impetus to further improvement of health systems.

Organized by Division of Health System, Policy and Management
