

ABOUT US

The Graduate Division of Public Health was established in 2005 as one of the graduate divisions within the Faculty of Medicine of The Chinese University of Hong Kong to provide public health and primary care related postgraduate education.

Our M.Phil.-Ph.D. programme supports interdisciplinary studies in the field of public health and primary care and aims to build the capacity of students in research methodologies that relate to public and population health, and community-oriented primary care.

We aim to educate researchers to embark on careers that would allow them to become world leaders in the fields of public health and primary care.

OUR GRADUATES

Our PhD graduates are expected to develop innovative ideas for the protection and improvement of health, and improve quality health care services in our populations based on sound scientific research. They are uniquely suited for a wide variety of professional careers ranging from university professors, principal investigators in research institutes, senior managers, or experts in healthcare related fields.
